NEWS OF THE DAY FROM THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

The House and Senate Disagree as to the Postoffice Appropriation Bill on the Senate Amendment for Foreign Mail Medities—The Educa-tion Bill to the Front Again, Etc.

THE FEDERAL FOCUS.

WASHINGTON, May 14 - [Special 1-The anticipated lock between the house and the senate on the postoffice appropriation bill has come. It is on the senate amendment appropriating eight hundred thousand dollars to improve foreign mail facilities. This a wend-ment was put on by a decided majority in the senate, after a full debate. Today it came up for consideration in the postoffice committee of the house. The committee resolved to refuse concurrence by a solid vote of the democratic members and of two republicans, Messrs. Wakefield and Guenther. The committee will be sustained by the house, which will ask a committee of conference. A majority of this committee on the part of the house will consist of opponents to the amendment. The conferees on the part of the senate will be fully as determined in their support of the amendment. The representatives of each house on the conference committee will appeal to its respective branch for support and will probably receive it to the extent at least of causing a stubborn contest. Both the friends and the opponents of the amendment are confident of success. Among the numerous memorials in support of the proposed amendment are those from the chamber of commerce of Atlanta and the borrd of trade

The friends of the educational bill are resolved to make one more effort to pass it. They feel sure that they can succeed if the bill can be brought to a vote in the house. Their present plan is to ask next Monday that a day be set apart for the consideration of the bill proposed by the committee on education and labor. A two-third vote will be required to carry this motion, and as it is understood that it will be made in the interest of the edu cation bill, it will meet a solid front from the opponents of that measure. Besides, if a day should be accorded the labor committee, it is doubtful if it could be induced to give the ed ncation bill a showing. The temper of this committee, so far as exhibited, is as decidedly against the bill as that of the committee on education, which has smothered it for four

Every indication is unfavorable to the pas sage of any educational bill by this congress, and many of the strongest friends of such legislation have lost hope.

THE RESIGNATION OF MR. JENKS. The resignation of Mr. Jenks, second assistant secretary of the interior, is attributable, in part, to the continual clashes which have occurred between bim and Land Commissioner Sparks. Mr. Jenks, who is the legal authority of the department, has frequently overrule Commissioner Sparks and their relations have been anything but pleasant. It seems to be settled that Commissioner Sparks must go, and Mr. Jenks wished to retire before the troubles between him and Sparks were brought out in the prominent and perhaps disagreeable shape they may assume when Mr. Sparks gets out of

THE RIVER AND HARBOR BILL. An impression that the president will veto the river and harbor bill is growing. Some of the opponents of the bill speak with great confidence on this subject. The senate is going to add heavily to the amount appropriated by the house, and when the bill is returned to the house for concurrence in these amendments, the fire will be re-opened in the body on the entire bill. While nothing is of course known of the president's intentions relative to a bill which has not reached him, enough is known considerably becloud the future of this bill.

GUARDING THE TREASURY.

The Senate Going Slow on the Pension Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The senate passed number of public buildings bills, among them number of public buildings bills, among them the bill providing for the completion of the public building at Harrisonburg, Va., to the amount of $40,000; an addition to the United States building at Jackson, Miss., $6,000.

The senate adopted Mr. Hoar's resolution requiring that the committee when reporting the river and harbor bill to state the fact that shows the national importance of several pieces of work and why each item of appropriation is advisable.

of work and why each item of appropriation is advisable.

At 2 o'clock the general pension bill was placed before the senate, and Mr. Vest took the floor in opposition to the bill. In the course of his remarks he animadverted with severity on the "nebulosity" of the estimates made by different persons as to the amount that the pending measure would take from the treasury. He asserted the amount was beyond the ken of mortal man, and in conclusion declared that he would go no farther in the direction in which congress had been hurried. These bills meant an indefinite raid on the treasury for an indefinite time.

Mr. Morgan submitted an amendment to be moved by him at the proper time, providing that pensions covered by the bill and not provided for by existing laws should be payable only out of money to be derived from internal revenue; and requiring the secretary of the treasury to report to congress in December, 1886, what percentage of taxation on the capital stock of corporations would be sufficient to pay the expense incurred under this act, but not to include corporations organized to promote religious, charity, education, morals, or health, nor any corporation of less capital stock than $50,000.

The senate at 3:45 p. m. wentinto executive session.

At 5:20, the doors were reopened and the senate adjourned until Monday.

senate adjourned until Monday.

THE EXECUTIVE SESSION.

The senate in executive session today again cleared its calendar of unobjected cases. Nearly an hour was consumed, in the discussion of a motion to reconsider the vote by which the nominee for postmaster at Lynchburg. Va., named Button, was rejected. His nomination was again rejected, only four senators voting in his favor. His offense was the alleged publication in his newspaper of uncomplimentary comments upon several prominent senators.

The House Takes up Bills Placed on It—Pension Bills Passed.

Washington, May 14.—After the transaction of routine business the house went into committee of the whole (Mr. Hatch, of Missouri, in the chair) on the private calendar.

A bill for the extension of a patent gave rise to a debate, which trenched upon the ground of tariff reduction. There was a disposition shown to lengthen out the tariff debate, but a protest was made, and private business was proceeded with.

After some time the committee reported half a dozen bills to the house.

After some time the commendation of the first bill taken up was that suthorizing the president to change the rank of Henry J.

Hunt from colonel to major-general on the re-tired list, and it was defeated -75 to 111.

The McMinnyille and Manchester claim bill gave rise to some discussion, and pending ac-tion, the house, at 5 o'clock, took-a recess untill 7:30, the evening session to be for the consideration of pension bills.

THE EVENING SESSION.

The house, at the evening session, passed forty-three pension bills, and adjourned till tomorrow.

A Subsidy Amendment Killed in Committee

A Subsidy Amendment Killed in Committee

—Resignation of Mr. Jenks.

Washington, May 14. — The house committee on postoffices and postroads today agreed to recommend non-concurrence in the subsidy amendment and that appropriating $80,000 for the pay of the postal car service added by the senate to the postoffice appropriation bifl. All other senate amendments are concurred in. All the democratic members of the committee present voted against the subsidy amendment, and all the republican members, except Messrs. Guenther and Wakefield, for it.

The appropriations committee of the house has completed another urgent deficiency appropriation bifl. It appropriates $6,000,000 for public printing, $200,000 for the pay of the army, and $5,000 for expenses of advertising for Indian supplies.

Assistant Secretary of the Interior Jenks has resigned his office, the resignation to take effect on May 15. Other imperative duties, the nature of which are not specified, are assigned as a reason.

The senate has confirmed the nominations of S. T. Honser, governor of Montana; J. P. Kim-ball. of Pennsylvania, director of the mint; J. W. Satcher, postmaster at Union Springs, Ala.; J. F. Irion, postmaster at Paris, Tenn.

THE MORMON "MARTYRS."

The Governor of Utah Visits the Penitentiary but Finds the Felons Obdurate.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 14 .- Governor West

SALT LAKE CITY, May 14.—Governor West went to the penitentiary yesterday to talk with the polygamous convicts there. He asked if they would be willing to promise obedience to the laws if he would use his influence to have elemency extended to them. Apostle Lorenzo Snow said he would not. He had no confidence in Judge Zane or United States Attorney Dickson, whatever. He might have in Governor West. The Governor said he had no right to talk that way The officials had no malice, but were all kindness. They were doing their duty, and would join him in asking elemency of the president for them if they would submit to the laws and urge others to do so. Snow said he did not blame Judge Zane and Attorn ey Dickson any more than he did those who persecuted Christ and the early Christians, but "we are following the command of God and cannot give away to the law of man."

Governor West considers that this leaves not a leg for the Mormons to stand upon in their claim of persecution; that President Cleveland would probably have listened to recommendations for clemency, but that the Mormons leave no opportunity for its exercise.

DAMAGE BY DYNAMITE.

The Explosive Used in Breaking Up Old Iron

The Explosive Used in Breaking Up Old Iron at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, May 14.—Colonel W. T. Hoblitzell, agent of the Atlantic Dynamite compaby, was employed this morning to break up a let of old iron stored on a vacant lot near the Republican iron works, Southside, He commenced work about six, o'clock on a tenton anvil, and used an immense charge of dynamite for the purpose. A terrific explosion followed, and huge pieces of the anvil were scattered in every direction. One piece, weighing three hundred pounds, wrecked a house eccupied by Mrs. McNamara, one block distant. Another piece of over two hundred pounds, crashed through the dwelling of Emil Erstman, also a block away. It struck a bed in which three children were sleeping. They were covered with the debris but escaped serious injury. Another house, occupied by Mrs. were covered with the debris but escaped serious injury. Another house, occupied by Mrs. Lurg, fully-300 feet away, was also wrecked. The only person injured was James Acton, who was walking on the sidewalk one block away. He was struck on the leg with a fragment and the limb was so badly injured that amputation may be necessary. Hobitzell was arrested for violating a city ordinance. The explosion caused intense excitement, as a ru-mor was current that a bomb similar to those used at Chicago had been thrown on the street

CHICAGO, May 14.—At Deshler, O., yesterday, the Baltimore and Ohio limited express was running in two sections. At Deshler the first section struck a cow, which was thrown against a switch with such force as to partially against a switch with such force as to partially turn it. The train ran on a siding. The rails spread and threw the sleeper down a five foot embankment, injuring fourteen of the passengers. No one was severely hurt, however, save an old gentleman who was cut about the forehead, the back of the head and hand. He was brought to Chicago.

THE TRIAL OF JAEHNE.

The Broadway Surface Scandle Called in New York Court.

NEW YORK, May 14 .- The trial of Alderman lachne for bribery began this morning. Francis J. Twomsy, clerk of the board of aldermen, was he first witness.

Clerk Twomey was followed by a newspaper reporter who witnessed the proceedings at the ra mous called meeting of the aldermen when the mous called meeting of the aldermen when the Broadway franchise was passed over the mayor's veto. The ex-alderman described the same meeting at which he presided, and the events thereto, and then Inspector Byrnes took the stand. He gives a history of his gradually growing intimacy with Jaehne, in the course of which Jaehne at first dropped occasional remarks, indicating participation in crooked actions in anofficial capacity, and inally talked openly about the bribery, and unbosomed himself of the whole story. Byrnes testimony confirms what has become the accepted belief that $20,000 was paid to each of thirden aldermen who voted to pass over the veto, and that the now famous Billy Maloney was the intermediary between the railroad people and the aldermen, and that he paid money for votes.

United States Court Cases. CHARLESTON, S. C., May 14.—In the United States circuit court today United States Marshal Absalom Blythe was tried for presenting false claims and misappropriating government funds, and was acquitted by instructions from Judge Bond, the offenses being merely technical and without oriminal intent.

Chief Justice Waite signed an order for the sale of the Georgetown and Lanes railroad on a suit brought by the Bank of New York, the road having failed to pay the instalments and interest on the bonds falling due July 1, 1884

North of England and Elsewhere.

XENIA, O., May 14.-The destruction of property was heavy. Correct figures are wanting, but it is safe to say that the loss to the city and citizens will reach $75,000, while the railroads will suffer as much more.

Three bridges on the Little Miami are out, and as much as five miles of the track gone. The first section of the night express from Cincinnati reached here all right, but the next section was caught between the bridges, and there it lay. A large amount of the track below Spring Valley is out, and the loss will be $5,000 or more. The Dayton and Ironton railroad, between here and Trebins, is washed out badly, and the Little Miami track is in the same condition all the way to Dayton. The town is full of strangers from blockade trains.

The magnitude of the disaster at Attica, Ind., constantly grows. The money loss is now estimated as high as $350,000, and two or three more deaths of injured people are expected. In Miggs county, Ohio, many buildings were demolished, two persons were killed and three

In Miggs county, Ohio, many buildings were demolished, two persons were killed and three badly hurt.

From Tipton, Ind., comes a similar story. The tornado swept a large section of country clear of buildings and trees. One member of a family named Gates, was killed, and five others are likely to die. A dozen others are hurt, more or less seriously.

At Wilkinson, Ind., the cyclone lasted only five minutes. But two persons were killed, and a dozen or more injured.

THE FLOOD IN ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—About six o'clock tonight the heaviest rain and wind storm of the year, and perhaps the heaviest rain fall that has occurred here for a number of years, passed over the city and swept on to the eastward. The rain was almost a deluge, and all the streets in the city were running streams of water, varying in depth from two to six inches. All depressions in the city were flooded and cellars and basements were partially filled, doing great damage to their contents. The specific losses are not obtainable at this writing, but the general damage will amount to many thousands of dollars. The virid second to lear the street of the contents.

The wind seemed to be a straight one, of bigh velocity, but so far no material damage from it has been reported. The ram was so heavy that it went through the roof of the Western Union telegraph office immediately over the great switchboard and by wetting the insulation of the wires and the crossing of currents actually disabled the office for a time.

THE STORM IN OHIO.

CINCINNATI, O., May 14.—News of damage by the storm of Wednesday night continues to come. Madison county, Ky., suffered to the extent of more than $200,000. Streams in that county are generally low-banked, and an unprecedented flood caused nearly all the bridges to be carried off. In Fayette county the water spout so pronounced that a flood of eight feet came tearing down Paint creek yesterday afternoot into Washington courthouse, and increased until in four hours it had risen eighteen feet, the highest ever known. All the lower part of the city was inundated and many people were driven from their homes. A dozen bridges are washed away.

MADRID, May 14.—The damage by the hurricane here will exceed $1,250,000. The queen sent a sum to the relief fund. Animals even exhibited the wildest terror during the hurricane. Farm crops and villages were destroyed in the country districts, the working class suffering the heaviest losses. Many washerwomen were blown into the river Mansarares, and twenty-eight drowned. The largest tree in Madrid, which stood in front of the parliament building, was blown down. The hospitals are crowded with sufferers. The storm was are crowded with sufferers. The storm was preceded by several days of extremely hot weather. In this city thirty-two persons were killed and 620 injured by the hurricane Wednesday evening.

The hurricane lasted only ten minutes. Government architects have examined a large number of buildings situated in the track of the storm, and have pronounced most of them unsafe. The town council has appropriated $8,500 for the rehef of sufferers, and the queen has given $500 for the same purpose.

CAPITAL AND LABOR. Latest Developments of the Struggle Between Them.

CHICAGO, May 14.—At six o'clock last even-CHICAGO, May 14.—At six o'clock last evening, in accordance with the decision of the wholesale clothing manufacturers association, of Chicago, all manufacturers notified their cutters that for the present no further work would be given out. By this action nearly thirty thousand men and women, a majority of whom, however, are already on the strike, have been cut off from employment.

The strike in the lumber yards is apparently ended. Reports from about forty of the yards show that the old men were straggling back to show that the old men were straggling back to work today. In some of the yards nearly a full force was at work. The strikers's committee became involved in a wrangle and failed to meet the lumbermen as arranged. It was said that it was finally agreed to report to the lumbermen that the men would go back to work at the old terms if all were taken back. It seems probable that a large majority of the men will go back into the yards today and resume work. The strikers' committee announces that they will call on the lumber men's committee today.

ROLLING MILLS START UP.

ROLLING MILLS START UP. MILWAUKEE, May 14 - Work was resumed today in the north Chicago rolling mill company's works at Bayview, Wisconsin. Laborers previously paid $1.10 per day now receive $1.40. The wages of boiler tenders formerly $2 per day will hereafter be $2.65. The works have been shut down since the mob domonstration on May 4.

THE EIGHT HOUR SITUATION.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's indicate that the industrial agitation in favor of fewer hours of work daily has largely disppeared elsewhere than in Chicago. At New York it has been a practical failure, while at Chicago the attitude of the manufactures in several leading lines in locking out some 47,000 employes who demanded a shorter working day promises to arrest the stration on May 4.

progress of the movement. Sup-plementary reports to Bradstreet's show that within about two weeks there have been strikes at the leading weeks there have been strikes at the leading industrial centres to secure fewer daily hours of labor, aggregating 200,000 employes; that 150,000 have secured concessions without striking, and says that not over 42,000 of 200,000 strikers have secured their ends. This indicates that over 100,000 employes are working fewer hours per day than one month ago, a small proportion of total number claiming to be interested.

PITTSEURG, May 14.—The grand jury of Washington county has returned true bills against 91 of the striking coal miners, who were charged with conspiracy. Their trials were charged with conspiracy. Their trials will come up at the present term of court in that county. The mint officials are determined to test the conspiracy laws in the most thorough manner, and for that purpose have detained the bet counsel available. Should the decision of the lower court be unfavorable, the cases will at once be carried to the supreme court. The indictments found against the miners are the result of rioting, which occurred in the fourth pool several months ago.

HARTINGTON'S HOSTS

ARRAYED AGAINST GLADSTONE'S HOME RULE BILL.

Meetings in England on Both Sides of the Gaver ment Measure-Lord Hartington Speaks-A Secret Meeting, at Which Mr. Parnell Presides-Arms Sent to Uister.

LONDON, May 14 .- A meeting of the followers of Lord Hartington was held today for the purpose of cementing the whig and radical opposition to the home rule bill. Sixty-four gentlemen attended, including Chamberlain, Trevelyan and Caine. Lord Hartington made a twenty minute speech in which he explained the reasons why the liberals should oppose Mr. Gladstone's measure.

He declared that the pledges from the liberals to oppose Gladstone's home rule bill were sufficient in number to make the rejection of the bill on its second reading a certainty. The defeat of the bill, he said, would cast a heavy responsibility on him, which, however, he was quite prepared to accept.

Several gentlemen made brief remarks, in which they stated their determination to oppose any measure brought forward which did not equally apply to the whole kingdom.

Mr. Chamberlain said if the government should recomponse the landlords of Irelaud, they would establish a precedent for the recompense for impecu-nious tradesmen, workingmen and others. The meeting was harmonious throughout and unanimously adopted resolutions declaring that those present would oppose a second reading of the home rule bill. The meeting lasted half an hour. Lord Harrington's "whips" report that 110 liberals have pledged themselaes to vote against the home rule bill and that thirty are doubtful. Conservative leaders advise conservatives in the house of commons not to speak during the debate as they wish to hasten a division on the second reading. It is rumored that Mr. Gladstone is consulting with his colleagues upon the advisability of withdrawing the home rule bill. The nationalist members of parliament this afternoon held a secret meeting in the house of commons. Mr. Parnell presided. It is understood that Parnell laid before the assemblage a number of communications from Mr. Gladstone suggesting certain modifications in the home rule bill, and further concessions to the demands of the radicals.

At a convention today of the members of parliament from Scotch burghs, supporters of Mr. Gladstone asked the premier to call a meeting of the whole liberal party, including malcontents, for a conference. Mr. Gladstone, in an interview with Mr. Allingworth, M. P., said he thought it would be best-to leave the disputed questions with the house. He saw little chance that a gathering of the whole party would lead to reconciliation.

The Daily News says:

"The importance of Lord Hartington's meeting yesterday lies in the evidence that all of Mr. Gladstone's liberal opponents are united. It is hopeless to try to conciliate Mr. Chamberlain. It simply remains to persevere with a second reading of the home rule bill, with almost certain prospect of defeat. The withdrawal of the bill would be practically worse than defeat. The country will either sanction home rule or we shall endure a period of tory government, during which the liberal seceders will become reconciled to home rule, which will be sanctioned on the next appeal to the country. The connection of Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Hartington destroys the chance of a whig-conservative coalition. Everything points to a dissolution of parliament cariy in the coming summer.

THE LORD'S SUPPER.

A Resolution Offered in the Methodist Con-ference to Change the Rubrics. RICHMOND, Va., May 14.—The Methodist Episcopal conference opened today with ordinary religious exercises. Among the reports a very interesting one was made on the subject of education, preposing the establishment of four biblical schools, with other matters of of four biblical schools, with other matters of general literary interest to the denomination. A resolution was offered, signed by Dr. T. J. Dodd, of Tennessee, G. F. Taylor, H. P. Walker and others, calling for a change in the rubrics of the church touching the invitation to the Lord's supper. The resolution proposes that the invitation read: "All that do truly and earnestly repent of your sins and intend to lead a new life, living in love and charity with your neighbors," etc., instead of "All that do truly repent of your sins and are in love," etc.

The committee on revisal presented their report. The committee had referred to it a paper in regard to dancing; also, a clause forbidding dances, attending the circus and opera. The committee fully agree that these evils are directly contrary to the general rules which are sufficiently comprehensive to cover such cases, and recommend that said evils should be corrected under the law as it now stands.

Judge Tucker, of Florida, of the committee on defrayal of expenses of the general conference submitted a report recommending that the expenses of delegates be paid by the church. The report stated that to meet this expense would require an assessment of only two cents and a half once in four years upon each church member.

Walter B. Hill, of Georgia, (lay delegate) in advocating the report paid a high compliment to Virginia hospitality and contended that the general conference had no more right to have their expenses paid by the people where the conference meets than have congressmen of the United States the right to-claim their expenses from the people of the District of Columbia.

Dr. R. A. Young, of Tennessee, was opposed to the whole plan, and held that the spirit of Christian hospitality was yet abroad in the land of Methodism.

Dr. Samuel Black, of West Virginia, thought that by adopting the report of the committee conference would be setting a precedent that would be followed by annual conferences and district conferences. The discussion resulted in the committee report being adopted.

The Petition to Stop the Sale of the East Ten nessee Road to be Heard.

KNOXVILLE, May 14.—The published report that the hearing before Judge Jackson in the United States circuit court on the petition of bondholders and stockholders of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, to stop the sale was postponed, because the petitioners were not ready to proceed, is not correct. The change of time from the 15th to the 17th inst., was made by Judge Jackson last week at the solicitation of counsel for the Central Trust company and the railroad company, who were not ready to meet the case of the petitioners on the 15th inst. Notices of this change were served from the clerk's office here last Saturdey. Except for the change of date, petitioners would have presented their case at Nashville on Wednesday. The case will certainly be heard as Nashville on May 17th.

ROME'S PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The Commencement Exercises of the School

Rome, Ga., May 14.—[Special.]—The closing exercises of the public schools occurred at the city hall tonight in presence of a large and appreciative audience. The occasion was a memorable one. Two years ago the public schools were opened, and tonight the first graduating class received diplomas. The schools, under the management of Superin tendent Benjamin Neely and an able corps of tendent Benjamin Neely and an able corps of teachers, have been wonderfully successful, and the people of Rome have good reason to feel proud of their public schools. That they are appreciative was shown by the enthusiasm exhibited tonight.

Shortly after 8 o'clock the exercises opened. The stars was beautifully commented with

The stage was beautifully ornamented with flowers, and on it were sested the board of trustces, the mayor and council and Superin-tendent Neely, while near by were seated nine bright girls, the first graduating class together with fourteen pupils to whom were excellence.

Superintendent Neely opened the exercise He spoke of the schools, their establishment, the good they had already done in the community, and the career of usefulness before them. He feelingly alluded to the regret with which he parted with the graduating class, which for two years had been under his instruction, whom he had watched with tender regard, and in whose future he was deeply interested. He then introduced Rev. Dr. R. B. Headden, who delivered three medals, the Peabody medal, a gold medal offered by Superintendent Neely and a gold medal offered by Max Meyerhardt, of the brard of trustees. Dr. Headden spoke eloquently and his address was loudly applauded. The doctor is a pleasing orator and is always listened to with deep interest.

Told by an Adventurous Colored Man of MeIntosh County. From the Darlen, Ga., Gazette.

Sitifa Roys, a colored man from the planta-tion known as Hopeton, near Darien, on the Altamaha river, says he enlisted in 1861 on the recruiting ship at Boston, Mass, known as Vermont, in the American navy as second cook. He said he remained in the naval service three years, and during that time he was on a blockader, called Young America. She captured two blockade runners of Charleston, S. C., loaded with arms, ammunition and pro-visions, and that he has not received one dollar of this prize money. At the expiration of his services in the navy, he was hon orably discharged without receiving the bounty due him under the acts of 1861 and 1873. and entered the whaling business in the ship Sophia Stanton of New Bedford. While engaged in this occupation the steamer Alabams appeared among the ships, more numerous than a squadron and burnt them all. Her officers, after taking all they wanted from them, col-lected their crews in one of them and held them prisoners while the conflagration was going on, and after it was completed they were discharged, to go where they pleased an evidence vidence of the correctness statement that he wit-of the statement that he witnessed the burning, he exhibited to the writer a letter from Mr. Fessenden, one of the commissioners of the Alabama claims, informing him that they had awarded him $392 for his loss on the burnt vessel. He says he is a full African. his parents being natives of that country. He was sold shortly before the war by some of the heirs of the estate of Hopeton to Mr. Allen, of South Carolina. His career must have been an interesting and exciting one while passing through these scenes. He is very black, talks loud, and is now advanced in life. His description of the manner in which these monsters of the sea are taken, is graphic. He says they are discovered by the spouting of water nearly up to the clouds, approached in boats sharp at both ends, called whales boats. First shot with a small canon, and, after being wounded, pursued with harpoons, a sharp barbed weapon with a long line the wound they descend to a great depth, and coming up will destroy the boat if she is in the way of her rising. They sometimes dash at the boat with their enormous mouths expanded, and would crush it like an egg if permitted to reach it. They next proceed to secure its oil, by towing it along side the ship and cutting it into small pieces, which are taken on deck of the ship and fried. Some sperm whales he says have yielded twenty bar-rels of oil from one head. He has returned to his anti-bellum home at Hopeton and engaged in the peaceful occupation of teaching the young rice plants how to grow and fractify, with his postoffice at Darien, McIntosh coun

THE SNAKE SEASON. The Spring Crop of Snakes All that Could Be

From the Dublin, Ga., Post.

On the 4th instant Mr. Jerry H. Yopp, while crossing Turkey greek, at Yopp's bridges, about seven miles west of Dublin, shot and killed an alligator 9 feet and 2 Inches long, weighing 360 pounds, with a 23-caliber sporting rifle. Mr. Yopp is a fine marksman, and taking am at his eyes, sent a ball-crashing through its brains. He skinned the alligator, and now has the hide at his home, well stuffed, where those destring to see it in passing, can do so with pleasure.

Last Sunday morning Mr. Ed Herrington had quite an adventure with a snake, the kind commonly known as coach whip. Having crossed the river, Mr. H. was riding through the swamp on the other side, and while passing under some boughs which overhung the road, a large snake fell by his side and at once wound himself into a coil. Mr. H. dismounted, got a rail, started to kill the snake, Not more than one lick was given when the snake, making a continuous clatter upon the leaves with his tail, began to raise himself up and stood, mouth open, nearly seven feet high. He then spring at Mr. H., who, not caring to remain in such close proximity with the reptile, found himself measuring distance at six or eight feet a leap. spring at Mr. H. who, not caring to remain in such close proximity with the reptile, found himself measuring distance at six or eight feet a leap, pursued by the snake. Finally Mr. H. fell down, and on looking back found, that the snake had stopped. He arose, procured a large stick, and went back prepared to give battle. The snake was killed. Mr. H. came off victoriously rejoicing.

From the Carrolton, Ga., Times, One pleasant evening "when the sun was sinking low," I was detailed by my better half to go down on Bear creek's cony swamp to drive up the cows to be milked. On my way to the creek swamp I went through a field of corn in the roast-ing ear state, where I found one of the ears had swamp I went through a need of corn in the rousting ear state, where I found one of the ears had broken off and was lying on the ground. I picked it up and went on in rearch of the bovine. The swamp was so densely set with cane and shrubbery that it was almost impassable except near the creek and along the paths beat out by the cattle. As I was following one of these paths in the direction of the bell, which was an indispensable necessity among a herd of cattle in those days, I saw lying in the trail before me a very large "cotton mouth" moccasin. I looked about me for a club to kill it with, but as I could not see anything that looked like it would make an effective weapon of offense I threw my roasting ear at it; but the blow only wounded it very slightly and, as I did not have the temerity to venture near enough to get my ears of corn for a second trial. I went a few steps away to cut a club to dispatch; twith. When I turned back towards where I left it, I saw it was moving towards the bank of the creek where it was about three feet above the water, and almost perpendicular. There was a bunch of bushes on the bank leaning over the water and by throwing myself against them I thought I could strike it before it could reach the water and start for the opposite bank. The bushes proved to be dead and in such a state of decay as to be inadequate to the task imposed npon them and iney gave way, breaking far enough above the ground to leave the stump high of decay as to be inadequate to the task imposed npon them and ihey gave way, breaking far enough above the ground to leave the stump high enough to catch me about the middle, when I fell wish my head down, and the bank being too high and steep for me to back out, my only alternative was to let myself down into the water and then make the best of my way out. In this ludicrous position his snakesnip was immediately under and within a few inches of my face. While I was occupying this unenviable position the generous reptile was bending all of its energies to escape from my unintentional proximity to it. Inasmuch as the presence of each was repulsive to the other, this space between us was soon as wide as the channel of the creek, it taking refuge under a log near the opposite bank. ing refuge under a log near the opposite bank while I went on unbitten after my cows.

Relies of the War.

From the Anniston, Ala., Hotblast. Mr. Cobb, who lives at Chulifence in Cleberne county, has preserved a biscuit that was cooked at the second battle of Manassas during the civil war. He was wounded in that battle, obtained a furlough and on getting home found the biscuit in his baversack and conceived the idea of preserving it as a relic and has had it in his possession ever since. It is kept dry and has become almost as hard as stone.

A Miss Caldwell, of the same place, has a

The goods from which the dress, and subsequently the quilt, was made was buried all during the war to keep the tories and British from discovering and destroying it. The goods was calico and forty cents per yard was resid for it. The Place to Strike

From the Madison, Ga., Madisonian,

School boys are not striking as numerous out west as they were two weeks ago. There is nothing that so opens a boy's eyes to the folly of striking as an old fashioned ox goard applied to the spot that will do most good applied to the spot that will do most good. Out west it proves as efficient a counter-irre-tant and reproves such folly as readily and surely as our young hickory twigs did down south in the good elden time when our teach-ers were not afraid to apply them. DR. JOHN BULL'S Smith's Tonic Syrup FOR THE CURE OF FEVER and AGUE Or CHILLS and FEVER. AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT care of Agne and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the antire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to ours if the directions are strictly followed and carried ent. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a per-fect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more cerhowever, prudent, and in every case more cer-tain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicins will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, re-quires eathertic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of KENT'S VEGETABLE FAMILY FILLS will be aufficient. Use no other. will be sufficient. Use no other.

GEO. E. KING THE LATEST IMPROVED

FLY FAN. COMPLETE REQUIRES NO ITSELF. KEY.

Fowler's Patent, June 30th, 1885.

ADDRESS

The most convenient and durable fly fan ever offered. It embodies the desirable features of the old-style Fowler Fans, together with some impor-tant advantages in construction and price, which cannot fail to make it popular wherever offered.

It is no longer a luxury but a necessity. It is self-acting, winds up like a stem-winding watch—complete in itself—requires no key—thereby avoiding the great annoyance of looking for a misplaced or lost key.

It drives all files away by the shadow and movement of the wings while revolting, will run one hour and a half at each studing, and can be rewound at any time by simply using the thumb series at bottom, or turning base or stem. It is more durable than the old style Fly.

The spindles and wing holders are made of steel, nickle-plated, and the interior works are of the best material, and specially adapted for easy motion and long wear.

One of the barns had but recently been completed at a cost of over $2,000. The stock lost was all valuable. One of the animals was Mr. McArthur's carriage horse which was one of a pair that cost him $650, and was highly prized. The aggregate loss will foot up not less than $5,000, partially covered by insurance. The fire occurred about three o'clock in the morning, and is supposed to have originated through the carelessness of some hand on the place while feeding the stock, preparatory to the day's work.

Albapy News: Seme of the darkies were

Albany News: Seme of the darkies were very indignant at Captain Henry Byrd, of the Colquitt Guards, and those of his company who turned out with the white people to pay their respects to ex-President Jefferson Davis on Saturday afternoon. Upon the other hand, their white fellow-citizens appreciated this evidence of loyalty and good feeling upon their part. Union soldiers who fought against the southern confederacy toasted Mr. Davis and paid their respect to him during his recent tour. Why, then, can't the southern negroes join their white fellow-citizens in honoring the grand old patriot? But ten of his company would turn out with Captain Byrd on Saturday, and inasmuch as some of the darkies have mouthed a good deal about it, we print their names, so that their white friends may know who the are: Captain Heary Byrd, Nelson Bragg. Tom Robinson, William Smith, George Collier, Jeff Mitchell. Louis Winkfield, Wiley Seymour, Nimrod Sanders, James Thomas, William Bearden, Henry Taylor.

Carnesville Reporter: Several years ago quite a number of fish ponds were started in this county and stocked with carp. The most astonishing results were predicted and expect-cd. The fish, it was thought, would multiply by the usands annually, and grow to the weight of frem one to four pounds the first year, and grow still more rapidly in succeeding years. It was also believed that the carp was a most excellent fish for table use. In all these expectations the carp raisers have been disappointed. The fish neither grow nor multiply very repidly, neither do they taste well after they attain considerable size. There may be more than one reason for the failure of growth and increase, but we offer one, that is conclusive. The ponds rarely exceed, or even reach one fourth of an acre in size. The young fish are estimated by thousands each spring, but we will cut them down to one thousand. These are expected to grow to the weight of two pounds each, the first year, making one ton of solid nutritive flesh produced on one fourth an acre in twelve months. The production of every pound of flesh would require at least ten pounds of nutritive food. To produce a ton of flesh would require ten tons, or 20,000 pounds of food. Where is the food to come from? Does any one expect ten tons of bugs, flies and worms, to fall into, crawl into, or rear in a fourth acre pond? The food necessary to raise a ton of fish would be equivalent to 357 bnshels of corn. This estimate leaves out all former crops still in the poud—including only one spawn of a thousand fish. A little figuring will show every owner of a carp pond, that his sanguine expectations were obliged to fail. were obliged to fail.

TO SAVE HER CHILD. The Courageous Efforts of a Mother to Res-

The Courageous Efforts of a Mother to Rescue Her Babe From Drowning.
From the Greensboro, Ga., Herald.
Frazer French and his family live on the Old Mines farm, in the town of Bradford, this county. In the farm yard is a deep well with a low curb; the water being drawn up by an old-fashioned sweep. On Saturday all the family were absent from home except Mrs. French and her little two-year-old son. Farmer French came home at noon. There was no one in the house. On the table was a slate on which was hastily scrawled: "Baby and I are in the well." are in the well."

French ran to the well, and, peering down, beheld his wife in the water clinging to the wall, but apparently dead. Alva Morris, a neighbor, was passing at the time, and responding to the farmer's cries for help let himself down into the well, fastened a rope around Mrs. Erench, and she was drawn to the top, alive but unconscious. As she revived she asked for her child, whose body was found at the bottom of the well.

top, alive but unconscious. As she revived she asked for her child, whose body was found at the bottom of the well.

"At 10 o'clock this forencon," said Mrs. French, "I went to the well after a pail of water, taking baby along. I saw that a board on the curb was loose, and running back to the house to get a hammer and some nails to fasten it, thoughtlessly left the child by the well. When I returned the baby was gone. I looked in the well and saw him struggling in the water. Thinking that some one might be in the house soon, I rushed back and wrote on the slate that we weae in the well, so that we could have help as soon as possible. I then hurried back and let myself down to the water by the niches in the wall. I succeeded in getting the baby out of the water with one hand, while I held myself above water with the other. I then placed one foot in the niche on one side of the well and the other foot on the opposite side, and braced myself so that I could keep above water, which reached higher than my waist.

"The baby was alive, and, having the use of both my hands and arms, I soon brought him to. I called constantly for help, and both myself and the child were terribly chilled by the water. Feeling that we must both die from exhaustion and cold unless I could reach the top in some way, I began to work myself up, using one hand and my feet. Lit-

Little by little I crept upward and in half an the by little I crept upward and in half an hour I was almost in reaching distance of the well. How my strength ever held out I don't know. I stopped to rest and thought of tossing the baby up over the curb. If I had had strength in my arms I knew I could have done so, but they were too tired and weak. After resting a while I was feeling around for a place to put my foot on a little higher to draw myself up, when I lost my footing entirely and we fell back into the water.

"The baby was knocked out of my arms and when I came to the surface of the water I could not find him. I remember grabbing about among the niches in the well, and that was all until I came to after being rescued. I must have clung unconsciously to the wall for

Cure for Piles.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a common attendant. Blind, bleeding and itching piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's pile remedy, which acts directly upon the parts effected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address the Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Pinga, O. Sold by C. O. Tyner, Schumann's Pharmacy and Goldsmith & Co.

A LOCK is threatened between the senate and bouse of representatives on the postoffice appropriation bill, on the former's amendment appropriating eight hundred thousand dollars for facilitating the foreign mail service.

THE storm of Wednesday did not confine itself to our continent. England suffered a most severe rainfall, and the rivers of that country are overflowing.

MRS. PARSONS, the negro wife of the Chicago anarchist, writes a letter to the papers, asking a suspension of opinion as to her hus band and the anarchists. She was one of the principal agitators on that fearful night.

THINGS seem to be warming up in England. Meetings are being held all over the country, on both sides of the question, and the purchase of firearms and ammunition during three weeks exceeds that of the past five years.

CHICAGO police have succeeded in arrest ing the fiend who threw the bomb in the midst of the policemen during the late riot in that city. Many more arrests are expected to follow, as the fellow has given information against other parties.

Of Two Wrongs Right the Greater. Major Bacon puts his campaign on the issue that he was "cheated out of the gover norship" by the last convention.

Admitting this to be true, which is not admitted, General Gordon has better grounds for reparation. He also was cheated out of the governorship. Not by democrats, but by republicans : not after a leisurely still-hunt, but after a terrific fight against the menace of bayonets and the power of the United States government.

If Major Bacon has been wronged-which we do not admit-his reparation can wait until the people have righted the great wrong done against the gallant Gordon and themselves in 1868.

As to Party Discord.

We have already alluded in these column to some queer features of the gubernatorial campaign. There are others that deserve attention. For instance, the supporters of Mr. Bacon affect to believe that the candidacy of General Gordon is a very unfortunate thing for the party. Mr. Bacon gave voice to this view in his Augusta speech ; so did that genial statesman, the Hon. Patrick Walsh, and the chorus has been taken up by the weekly papers that have announced for Bacon. They say that General Gordon's candidacy is inoprtune: that it is impolitic: that it will bring strife and discord where harmony reigned before. We gather from these news papers, indeed, that the candidacy of General Gordon is simply fiendish in this direction. calculated to dismember and disembowel the democratic party.

These statements are very seriously made on the part of the Bacon speakers and papers, but they must strike the public as absurd and ridiculous. Where is the strife to begin? What is to bring it about? Upon what basis is the alleged discord to grow and develop? What is there for it to feed upon? Do the Bacon orators and newspapers suppose that the democratic voters of Georgia are either fools or children that they should fall to and scratch out each other's eyes in regard to a choice between two citizens who have offered themselves as candidates for the nomination? The very idea of such athing is preposterous. The issue before the people is, whether they want Gordon or Bacon for governor. There is nothing in such an issue to create bad blood, or to bring about party discord. The plain inference to be made from the contrary assertions of Mr. Bacon's supporters is that their candidate has "taken the homestead," so to speak, on the right to become a candidate for governor, that the people recognize this pre-empted right, and will begin to pull each other's hair, and proceed to smash the party as soon as an "unauthor ized" candidate enters the field.

In all that THE CONSTITUTION has said, thus far, in regard to the campaign, it has been its intention to reform the methods of those who are so hotly opposing General Gordon, and to direct the course of the campaign into a reasonable channel. It should be borne in mind that, after all the fuss and flurry, the people are to decide the matter, and they will decide it absolutely on its merits. If Mr. Bacon's supporters are really afraid of the people, they should boldly pro claim the fact. If they are not afraid, they should gladly take advantage of an opportunity to let the people decide for themselves

The Cyclone Season.

There are times in the year, and there are even whole seasons, when the Gulf and South Atlantic states are the scenes of unusual and even deadiy atmospheric disturbances; but this season is not one of that number. The entire south, from the Rio Grande eastward to the sea, is calm and placid. True, we may not yet be safe from the cyclonic furies, but as a rule dangerous storms appear in the south before June, and the chances are that there will be few or no cyclones in the south

There are plenty of them in the northwestern states, and they appeared very early even in the regions above St. Paul, and there has been no long intermissions since the dis-aster at St. Cloud and Sank City. In that The most popular explanation now is that broad section there are the whirling deathdealing storms, and also high winds that are almost as destructive, and unprecedented rainfalls, and black skies and all the other henomena of a very unusual and undesirble state of the atmosphere.

The study of the winds and storms has not progressed far enough to satisfactorily explain why first one section of the country and then another is blessed by the absence of dangerous winds; but the heart of man in the fortunate district is none the less thankful on that account. We can be grateful to Providence for protection even if we cannot learnedly discuss all the currents in which we are enveloped. It is another case of blissful ignorance. We are wholly content to know very little about the air if it will continue to behave itself.

Five Days Against Five Years. General Gordon has been a candidate for governor since last Sunday morning. His campaign is, therefore, just five days old. Major Bacon has been a candidate for governor for five years, and his campaign is even older than that.

In point of time, therefore, the two cam paigns stand as a day to a year. Even with this start, the Bacon men are unwilling to trust the people to vote in their primaries, as to who they will have for governor. They stand by their little courthouse meeting? and declare that elections are very trouble some, and that primaries are farces.

General Gordon and his friends ask for nothing but that the people be allowed to vote. If the people speak through the ballotbox, their voice will be respected and their verdict will be authoritative. But little courthouse meetings never have and never will satisfy the popular demand. A correspondent writes us that Major Bacon never did, in any of his races, carry a primary election. We do not know this to be true. If it is true, it is no reason why pri maries should not be called.

Wherever the people are heard from, they are for Gordon. The few counties that have already acted, are proving to be divided, though they were said to be solid for Bacon. We have positive information that the Clarke county delegation is not solid for Bacon, and a gentleman writing from Athens, says: 'The pot is just beginning to boil in this county. It will be Gordon vet." In the other counties there is similar division. The work of five days makes a very credita ble showing, even when put against the work of five years.

paper articles would be much more

weighty if he would show any desire to give Dr. Armstrong an opportunity to carry his case before a tribunal outside of local passions and prejudices. In his annual address the bishop expresses great contempt for "those who rush into the public print," and argues against the formation of an appellate court to take cognizance of existing grievances. As the presiding officer of the die cesan convention, he tried to shut Dr. Armstrong out altogether, but the convention overruled his decision, and decided to receive Dr. Armstrong's protest against the sentence that had been passed upon him. 'I come before you," says Dr. Armstrong, to entreat that if you have any power to mitigate or relieve me of a sentence that, without desiring to reflect on any author ity, I must again pronounce illegal and unjust, you will, in your wisdom and charity, exercise it." Why should not the council hear such an appeal? The newspaper articles that the bishop complains of, have nothing to do with the case. The sentence is either legal or illegal, just or unjust, and the publications do not reach the gravest part of the case. Dr. Armstrong asks to be heard in a tribunal beyond the local stage. He claims to be the victim of a gross wrong. Why should not be or any other aggrieved party be heard? Bishop Beckwith says the idea of giving Dr. Armstrong another hearing is preposterous. It is not strange, therefore, that the bishop does not of fair play in the American press, both secular and religious. The Trunk Murder Case.

find the average newspaper article altogether to his liking. There is a very strong sense

One of the greatest murder trials of the ge is now in progress at St. Louis.

More than a year ago, the body of Preller, a young Englishman, was found cut up and packed in a trunk. Circumstantial evidence strongly pointed to his friend and companion. Maxwell, as the murderer,

Then occurred an exciting race between ustice and the murderer. Steam was on the side of the criminal: it carried him to the other end of the world. Electricity was on the side of the law; it headed off the fugitive in New Zealand.

Maxwell was brought back to St. Louis, and for a year has languished in jail. Daring his long confinement, the murderer has baffled curiosity. Brazen and flippant, and yet effeminate and dudish, he strikes everybody as the very last man in the world to be guilty of the brutal butchery with which he is charged. Yet the points against him will be hard to get over. He was with Preller a long time. He had no money, and Preller had plenty. After the murder, Maxwell was flush. He fled under a false name. Preller's clothing and other effects were found in Maxwell's trunks. They have bad considerable difficulty in getting a jury, and as it must be composed of men who have formed no opinion, the probability is that it will consist of dull, gnorant men who will be easily influenced by appeals to acquit on the score of "reasonable doubt." The case excites great interest in England as well as in this country.

A Step in the Right Direction. At the recent annual meeting of the Quakers, held in Philadelphia, the custom of sleeping in meeting was made the subject of a series of resolutions, and denounced as 'unbecoming behavior."

Our Quaker friends deserve credit for the coldness with which they have tackled this evil, but it is painfully apparent that they did not go far enough. We need more light thrown upon the causes and the origin of the practice. Some of our great religious bodies should refer the whole matter to a special committee of experts.

As the case now stands, we are all aware of the existence of the evil, but opinions differ as to its origin and the proper remedies for it. The old theory that the innate depravity of the sleeper was at the only by of his drowsiness, is now believed in only by the preacher is responsible for the sleeners. Those who take this view say that nobody goes to sleep under Dr. Talmage, and Sam Jones's congregations are always remarkably wide-awake.

There is a pointer in this for those who are not wilfully blind. Preachers who are at noyed by the somnolency of their congregations should endeavor to ascertain how such ministers as Talmage and Jones manage to control the eyes and ears of their nalism. A reminiscent writer thus sums shem up:

Two Pollard brothers were connected with the Richmond Examiner during the war, the editor in chief being Mr. John M. Daniel. This journal was remarkable for its bitter opposition to the administration of Mr. Davis. The brothers were H. Rives and Edward A. Pollard, both gentlemen of fine journalistic ability. The former was shot in the street by a young man by the name of Grant whose sister's reputation he (the editor) had aspersed in a weekly journal he edited after the surrender of Lee, and known as the Southern Opinion. He was a writer of considerable ability. This journal was published in Richmond and won notoriety by the severety of its articles and its propensity to printed domestic affairs. Edward A. Pollarddied some ten years ago. He was not less bitter in his writings than his brother, and got himself into many difficulties by mixing too inuch gall with his ink. Having long been employed in the office of the Examiner, he acquired the sourness and acrimony that tainted every department of that journal. He initated John M. Daniel in his style of writing, and stood by his side in his attacks on Jefferson Davis—not only as a president, but as a citizen. From the commencement of the war to its termination he kept a scrap-book of the documents of the government, congressional reports, accounts of battles, and general incidents of interest. From these selections and files of the Examiner he compiled his History of the War, the first work of the kind issued from the press. This work was so faulty and one-sided, that it was severely handled by the critics north and south. He revised it and republished it with the title of "The Lott Cause."

the north, and finally took up his residence in New York after having tried Baltimore, sustaining himself by writing for various journals. The last article from his pen, if our memory serves us, was a long essay on the status of the southern negro, proposing a plan for the amelioration of the condition of the freedmen through the kindly feelings of the superior race. Mr. Edward Pollard was not a solid writer, though a voluminous one; he had but few friends and few admirers, from the fact, that he made no effort to secure the friendship of any one.

You will not find in any earlier print this expression "cockles of the heart." It has never been determined exactly what the word "cockles means; the word "corke" is a provincialism men-tiched in Palmer's Folk-Etymology as meaning a corruption of a diminutive (coreles) signifying "little hearts" or "little cores." In connection with this please new the core. culum" means "a little heart." with the Kimball house that is singular enough to What becomes of the smoke from the eigars conumed on the first floor of the arcade? During the visit of Mr. Davis, two or three hunired men congregated on that floor every day. Two-thirds of the number smoked incessantly, Yet, on the second floor, not the faintest oder of eigar smoke could be detected. It would seem that come of it must have ascended, but, if it did, its odor was thoroughly neutralized. Perhaps some scientist, whose leisure is as boundless as his enthusiasm, may tell what becomes of the smoke.

How They Originated Sensation on Whitehall Street-Remarks of the Throng-What Inspect-or Henry Booth Says-The Operatives Indignant-The Knights of Labor.

Atlanta is about to be subjected to another art sensation.

This time the style of the art is decidedly low.
That is, those who are interesting themselves in the matter declare it to be low.

A few weeks ago, the show windows of the cigar stores were suddenly turned into picture galleries. The pictures were chiefly of actresses, whose garments were either much abbreviated or suggestively disphanous. They attracted many gazers, who paid more attention to the graceful figures of the actresses than they did to the advertisements of cisarettes printed above or beneath.

of cigarettes printed above or beneath.

There were those that declared the pictures to be objectionable, alleging as a reason that they served to corrupt the morals of the boys and young men of the city.

This first exhibition of low art was quickly followed by another that was declared to be stiff.

lower.

An enterprising firm in Richmond, Va., sent to the dealers in tobacco handsome cabinet photographs of pretty young women, said to be operatives in the firm's eigarette factory.

The positions occupied by the young women were declared by some straight-laced people to be indecent.

The photograps, each containing an advertise ment of the cigarettes manufactured by the firm, at once attracted much attention. No show win-dow in which they were displayed was without a throng of admiring speciators. They were eagerly throng of admiring spectators. They we sought by councisseurs, who appeared gard the advertisement as a blemish. heir way into the parlors of staid citizens, and in one instance, a collection was tacked upon the office door of a prominent lawyer.

ORIGIN OF THE PHOTOGRAPHS, A Constitution reporter, possessed of an inquiring turn of mind, determined to discover, if possi-ble, the origin of the photographs. Perseverance cisclosed the facts that follow:

The Richmond firm had a large business in the north. Thousands of boys, millions of young men, and all the dudes, smoked the cigarettes. It is said that even a large number of strong minded young ladies contracted the habit of pulling the dainty little rolls of fragrant tobacco.

But, alas!

A jealous northern competitor. A jealous northern competitor, determined to destroy its rival's business, set afloat the rumor that the favorite eigarettes were manufactured by convicts. The effect of the rumor was like that of a wet blanket. Thousands of the eigarettes were put out. The boys and young men of the north were disgusted. The dudes gazed sorrowfully at each other and remarked: "Don't yaw knaw, it's quite too awfully bad!" The young ladies blew the horrid things!"

At Richmond there was dire consternation. Something must be done to counteract the inference of the convict story.

Something must be done to connectate the in-fluence of the convict story.

Singularly enough, the senior member of the firm, a leading church member, suggested the plan of sending out photographs of the cigarette makers, just as they appeared every day in the fectory.

The suggestion was accepted, and in an almost The suggestion was accepted, and in an almost incredibly short time the entire north was flooded with photographs of "the eigarette maker," with the legend attached: "Taken at the factory at Richmond." The result was a renewal of the popularity of the favorite eigarette. Discovering that the photographs were an attractive advertisement, the firm sent them east, south and west, as well as north Today there is perhaps not a villege in America that does not contain in the show windows of the tobacco dealers from one to a dozen of them.

More Low Art.

The process of the Fishmond firm induced others.

The success of the Richmond firm induced others to try the lew art doge. Vesterday morning, on Whitehall street, between Alabama street and the railroads, a large frame enclosing a degen photographs was displayed in front of a tobacco dealer's store. The exhibition at once attracted 4 througs of spectators. Ladies that passed by glanced at the photographs and then turned their heads away, blushing. Even the men that formed part of the throng were shocked, and some of them condemned the photographs in strong terms.

"Why," said one man, with fiery hair and a very red face, "look at that photograph on the right. That woman has nothing but a sheet thrown around her. It's a disgrace! Why don't the police make a bouffre of the thing?"

"Where is Recorder Anderson?" inquired another; "he squelched the "Greek Slave high art' business, but this is a thousand times worse. These pictures are shamefully indecent."

"Correct!" chimed in a fat, bald-headed man; "those pictures are worse than forty thousand Police G zettes." The success of the Richmond firm induced others

"Correct!" chimed in a fat, bald-headed man; 'those pictures are worse than forty thousand Po-jee G zettes," "Well," said a tall man, the cut of whose coat suggested a clergyman, "the people that send pictures like those through the mails will be pun-shed yet. I have been told that the postal an-horities intend to prosecute them for mailing indecent matter,"

The reporter of the inquiring turn of mind heard the tall man's remark, and hastened away to discover whether it had a substantial foundation. He called on Mr. P. G. Gordon, at the Kimball, and interviewed him.

Do you use photographs to advertise your busi-"Not the kind to which you have reference,"

Gordon replied. Well, do you know whether or not photographs ilar to 'the cigarette maker, are, sent through Why, of course, they are. I know an agent in Atlanta who is constantly receiving packages of Attanta who is constantly receiving packages of them in that way. Recently, some that were sent him failed to reach him. He called on Postmaster Renfroe about t today, and was informed that an investigation would be made at once."

Satisfied that the photographs were sent through the mailes, the reporter sought Inspector Henry Booth. He was found in his office at the custom.

"Inspector," said the reporter, "It is against the law to send indecent matter through the mails, is law to send indecent matter through the mails, is it hol?"

"Yes, it is,"

"Have you seen the photographs of the eigarcite maker,' and others like them?"

"I could not well avoid seeing them. They may be found in many stores in Atlanta."

"Bo you consider them indecent?"

"As to that, if you are consulting me in my official capacity, I can only say to decide the question a case would have to be made in order that the judge might pass upon it."

"Will you make a case?"

"If I can obtain proof that the photographs are being sent through the mails I may, perhaps, do so."

In subsequent conversation, the reporter was impressed with the belief that Inspector Booth would make a test case. In New York, and in 'a few other large cities, such cases have been made, and in every instance, the photographs have been declared to be indecent, and those that sent them through the mail have been punished. It is probable that the United States authorities at Richmond will be requested to make test cases.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR INTERESTED.

The protographs of "the circustre makes"?

The photographs of "the cigarette maker" The photographs of "the cigarette maser" represent the operative seated at a table manufacturing cigarettes. The box on the table is numbered, say thus: "849." The operative's dress is arranged so as to expose her limbs.

When the operatives in the factory at Richmond discovered that some of their number had consented to be photographed in the position described, they became indignant, and held a meeting to take action upon the matter. It was then made known that many of them had received letters of an unpleasant character directed to the numbers on their boxes. These letters were received by the bushel. It was determined that the numbers on their boxes. These letters were received by the bushel. It was determined that the matter should be referred to the executive board of the Knights of Labor. Accordingly, this was done, and the board unanimously resolved to notify the firm to stop sending out the photographs upon pain of being boycotted if a refusal to obey the notification were returned. It is said that the firm agreed to obey. But, be this as it may, it is eartain that the photographs continue to be sent south. In a number of instances, so the St. Louis Sunday Sayings declares, the operatives have been subjected to the grossest insults upon the streets of kichmond, all because a few of their associates so is forgot maidenly modesty as to allow themselves to be photographed in unbecoming positions. present the operative seated at a table ma

In the meantime, the Richmond firm is reaping a lich harvest as the result of its cunningly devised advertising scheme, and the dudes continue to address ardent letters to the box numbers.

GORDON AND BACON MEET IN LEESBURG.

The Pirst Joint Discussion of the Campaign—Gorde Makes a Strong Fight in a Bacon County—The People Treated to a Rare Treat of Oratory—Notes of the Campaign, Stc. ALBANY, Ga., May 14.- The first joint discussion of the campaign between Gordon and Ba con took place in Leesburg today.

con took place in Leesburg today.

Lee county has always been looked upon as a unanimous, Bacon county. For over eighteen months the Bacon programme has been in perfect operation. The intention of General Gordon, therefore, to go into this stronghold of Baconism created great interest in the result, and people are now anxiously awaiting the news of the contest.

Over 500 voters were present. The speeches were terse and to the point, creating great enthusiasm. Gordon began speaking to an audience which was evidently largely against him, but warming up to his subject, he soon had the crowd with him, until at last even Racon people admitted that the crowd was evenly divided.

Senator H. L. Long said to your correspondent was evenly divided.

Senator H. L. Long said to your correspondent that he never saw such a revolution in so short a time. Two days ago there were but two pronounced Gordon men in the county. Such a change has now been made that if Bacon carries the county at all he will do well.

It was because Lee was one of the Bacon strongholds that it was selected as one of the counties in which to take snap judgement before the state central committee acted.

The election takes place to provious

The election takes place tomorrow.

PROGRESS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

The Demand for Primaries Grows Steadily in Force. The Hamilton Journal, noticing the fact that several counties have elected delegates to a convention which has, as yet, no existence, asks: "Why this unseem'y haste?" That is a question to which the honest voters of the state will demand an answer before the discussion is ended. On the same subject the DeKalb Chronicle says:

same subject the DeKalb Chronicle says:

Calling mass meetings and sending delegates to a convention that has not been called is unprecedented in political history and doesn't strike us as just the proper thing.

The Rome Bulletin thinks The Constitution misrepresents Major Bacon in saying that he was against primaries. That is only dodging the issue. Major Bacon merely evaded so that he might still profit through the courthouse cliques. If he is for primaries the columns of The Constitution are open to amounce the fact. General Gordon has boldly declared himself in favor of an open ballot before all the people.

Give the people primaries.

The Columbus Sun evidently sees far enough ahead when it declares that need when it declares that -it cannot be questioned that it is in the preliminary meetings that the foundation of a political the trouble to attend them and express their

The Cartersville Courant says that General Gordon "stands squarely on the railroad commission and does not dodge, or attempt to do so, this most important question. This alone will make him friends by the score."

The Butler Herald regrets that Bacon, as well as Simmons, did not see fit to retire at once from the race, "thus leaving to General Gordon the nomination without opposition." The Herald then says that General Gordon -will not only receive the nomination, but will be triumphantly elected. General Gordon has shown himself to be a good and pure man, and we doubt not he will wisely and patriotically discharge the duties of the high office to which he aspires and will no doubt be called. While the office will reflect honor on him, he will not at least detract from the place.

The Brunswick Appeal says the news of Gordon's candidacy was "received with great sorrow by the Bacon syndicate," and freely extends its sym-pathy to them.

Give the people primaries. The Savannah News says:

Give the people primaries.

The Savannah News says:

Major Bacon, in his Augusta speech on Tuesday, seems to feel aggrieved because General Gordon concluded to become a candidate after he (Major Bacon) had things all in nice shape for getting the momination without any noise, and without any political strife. He even goes so far as to say that if General Gordon had had the nomination almost in his grasp, as it were, no possible circumstances or influence could have induced him to antagonize General Gordon.

This is rather a remarkable statement, to say the least of it. The convention has not yet been called, and Major Bacon talks as if he has such a claim on the nomination that it is wrong for anybody else to make an effort to get it.

We have great respect for both Major Bacon and General Gordon, and shall certainly support the nominee of the party heartily, but we have seen nothing yet that justifies the belief that Major Bacon, General Gordon or anyone else has any claim to the governorship. Any man can be a candidate for it if he wants to, notwithstanding that Major Bacon has been working for it for years and General Gordon thinks that his candidacy is necessary to heal differences in the party.

The fact is the friends of these two gentlemen talk as if they thought there were no other men in the state qualified for the office of governor, and that the people are determined to have one or the other of them. When we think about it, however, we realize that the people haven't asked either of them to heavene candidates for the nomination.

we realize that the people haven't asked either of them to become candidates for the nomination, and if the people are given a chance by the poli-ticians they may select delegates who will not nom-inate either of them.

The Brunswick Appeal comes to Gordon's stand imate either of them.

The Brunswick Appeal comes to Gordon's standard and says:

General Gordon's formal announcement of his candidacy for governor has made its appearance. He says he has been induced to declare himself at the solicitation of many friends all over the state. We believe he truly so declares, because the people, who have winessed the ways of the railroad manaers and intend to defeat their evil machinations against the railroad commission, determined to antogonize the railroad commission, determined to antogonize the railroad commission, determined to the field. Of course it spoils the slate and the railroad organs howl with rage. The fixing of a portion of the press and the "still hunt" will go for nothing. Gordon will go at once upon the stump and meet his enemies face to face. He will not seek to conceal his views upon any question. He will answer the people's questions and crush out the instinuated slanders urged against him. He wants nothing conceal afform the people in this canyass, and that's what hurts his opponents. More than that, he wants the opposing candidates for governor to unite with him in an appeal to the state executive committee to order primary elections in each county so that the voice of the people may be fully ascertained. There is nothing objectionable about that mode. It provides for infallibly ascertaining the will of the party, and this is the more necessary since the friends of Bacon pretend that Gordon's candidacy is the result of. "ring work." But there can be no "ring work" where all the people express their preference at the polls.

The Reidsville (Tantall county) Enterprise declares that "General Gordon has a strong hold on the hearts of Georgians."

Give the people primaries. The Sandersville Herald comes to the conclusion the hearts of Georgians."

The sanderville freak contests of the contrastor. That has a quietus to rings, and to voice the will of the people, no petter method can be devised than that of primary elections.

According to the Ellijay Courier General Gordon's record as a soldier stands without reproach and the thousands of old veterans all over the state who followed him in battle will see to it that his claims go not unheeded. His record as a statesman is well known to the people of Georgia.

The Madisonian reiterates the fact that it has always been an advocate of primary elections for nominating candidates or delegates to conventions. Not because we consider it the surest remedy to effectually cure the disease. No court house clique or ring can be justly supposed to be able to reflect the sentiment or wishes of the party, as well as the messes of the party itself.

Give the people primaries.

Give the people primaries.

Replying to the statement of the Athens Banner "that it would be hard to run primary elections down the throat of Oglethorpe democrats, and that primaries are the greatest farces known," the down the throat of Oglethorpe democracy primaries are the greatest farces known," the Madisonian says:

That may be true as he looks at it, but we had rather risk the primary every time than a few men composing courthouse rings to nominate candidates for us. Frimaries have been tried twice in Morgan since we have lived in the county with the best results. On the other hand, one caucus was held that we know resulted most unfavorably. A republican can no more easily vote in primaries than in a caucus, provided the managers do their duty in the premises, and we are quite certain that no complaint of jusgling, buildozing or other trickery is ever made afterward. But in caucuses this complaint generally obtains.

The Blackshear Georgian has this: 'Next to Mr. Davis, the most prominent figure was General John B. Gordon. The intervening years were forgotten and General Gordon stood before the people as the man of the 12th May,' every inch a soldier and the pillar of the army of the Potomac. Many who fought under him in the dark days of the sixtles were glad to grasp him by the hand."

The announcement of General Gordon's candidacy, however, has changed things considerably. With view of ascertaining how the citizens stood upon the question your correspondent interviewed a number of the prominent men, and in answer to the question, "Who is your choice for governor?" received the following replies: Captain R. W. Wade—My personal preferences

Judge W. W. Fleming—If I have any preference I guess its for Gordon. I can't tolerate the idea of anything being said against him.

Colonel R H. Powell-On the score of patriotism, 'm for Gordon every time.

Mr. R. C. Smith—I once said I wouldn't vote for Gordon for anything, but, wait a minute, I don't say that now. I'm against Bacon.

Dr. B. R. Dostor—I believe Bacon would make a good governor. However, in consideration of the fact that Gordon was elected governor in 1868 and Bulloched out of it, and in consideration of his gallantry during the war, and his high moral character, I think he should be Georgia's next Words of Soberness from Hon. Nelson Tift. Mords of Soberness from Hon. Nelson Tir.

ALBANY, Ga., May 12, 1886.—Editors News and Advertiser: As a citizen and as a democrat I protest against the methods of opposition to General Gordon, which are being pursued by some of the newspapers who are friendly to Major Bacon for governor. They seem to think that Major Bacon has some exclusive right on account of the fact that he has heretofore been an unsuccessful candidate for nomination, and that General Gordon in offering himself as a candidate for nomination by the state democratic convention, is in-don in offering himself as a candidate for nomination by the state democratic convention, is interfering with Major Bacon's right.

I think this course not only impolitic, but unjust. General Gordon, and every other democrativho desires to doso, has an equal right with Major Bacon to place his name before a democratic convention as a candidate for office. It is understood that the democratic convention will select and announce the candidate for governor with reference to their judgment of his qualifications for the office, and that the unsuccessful candidates and their friends will acquisoce in their decision and aid in the election of the numbers.

Every candidate for nomination by the state democratic convention, who is worthy of the position of governor, will seek to promote unity and harmony in the democratic party as a necessary prens to the success of its candidate and the establishment and maintenance of its principles.

There may be honorable rivalry among the members of the democratic party for nomination to office, which is not inconsistent with the unity and success of the party in its conflict with its opponents. nents.

Let us all, and especially all rival candidates for nomination to office, remember the golden rule:

COURT CULLINGS.

Items Gathered from the Various Justice

William Cosby, one of the youngest but slickest rogues in the gang, was yesterday sentenced to twelve months on the chaingang for larceny from the house. Cosby's partner, Lucius Florence, would have been sentenced on the same charge, but was suffering from a burnt foot. A few days ago, while Florence was asleep in his cell, Cosby saturated some rags with kerosone and tied them to Florence's foot. He then lighted a match and, sticking it to Florence's foot, watched him jump and scream. Cosby has spent half of his life in prison and says he don't care if he spends the balance.

BAKER'S BAD BREAK.

R. T. Baker, a neat looking white man, was yesterday sentenced to serve eight months on the Georgia chaingang for stealing a watch from William Cannon.

Baker came to Atlanta with the Toy Pistol

Asker came to Atlanta with the Toy Pistol combination and got stranded. He loafed around bar rooms and free lunch counters and fell in with some of the boys. One night about three weeks ago he was arrested on a charge of stealing a watch from William Cannon. He protested his innocence, but after being jugged for three days he confessed the crime, and told where the watch could be found. told where the watch could be found. ADMITTED TO PRACTICE,

Mr. Thomas F. Ashworth was yesterday ad mitted to practice in the superior court. He stood a very creditable examination.

HAS NOT GIVEN BOND. William Malone has not yet given bond, but it is said he can and will do it. His brother has not yet arrived.

DEATH OF MR. ELAM JOHNSON. One of Atlanta's Best Citizens Passes Over the River.

Mr. Elam Johnson died at his home, 66

Cooper street, yesterday afternoon at half past two o'clock.

Mr. Johnson had only been sick about two weeks, and his death was sudden and unexpected. When first taken he had pneumonia, and from this he drifted into gastrict fever. His attending physicians, Drs. Earnesh and Todd did not consider the case a very stubborn one and Monday lest Mr. Lohnson and Todd did not consider the case a very stubborn one, and Monday last Mr. Johnson began to improve rapidly and Thursday he was so much better and appeared in such excellent spirits that they had about decided to dismiss the case. Late Thursday evening, however, Mr. Johnson began to grow worse and the family became aiarmed and sent for the physicians. He rested very well during the night, but yesterday morning was much worse and he sank rapidly. The physicians did not lose hope until one o'clock in the afternoon, when they realized that there was no possible chance to revive the patient. At half-past two the soul of the suffering man took its flight to the spirit land.

A good man has fallen asleep. Mr. Johnson took its flight to the spirit land.

A good man has fallen asleep. Mr. Johnson was a man who won the love and confidence of every one with whom he came in contact. He always looked on the sunny side and endeavored to make those around him happy. He was kind and charitable, and never turned a deaf ear to those who asked and needed assistance. In all public enterprises he took an active interest, and could always be relied assistance. In all public enterprises he took an active interest, and could always be relied upon to do his full duty. In his death Atlanta loses one of her best and most useful citizens. Mr. Johnson was born near Charlotte, North Carolina, on the 28th of July, 1835. He received a common school education, and at an early age he began the battle of life for himself. He merchandised for a number of years at Bronwood a station ninetweight miles he. at Bronwood, a station ninety-eight miles be-low Macon. In 1860 he married Miss Permelia Raven, in Sumter county, Georgia. In the spring of '79 Mr. Johnson, with his family, moved to this city, and he entered the mercantile business, and at the time of his death he was doing a large wholesale grocery and commission business.

The deceased leaves a wife, two daughters and two sons to mourn his death, but in thei stiliction they have the sympathy of hundreds who knew and loved the husband and father. FIFTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS.

The Verdict in the Case of Krogg vs. the West Point Road. The jury in the case of Fred Krogg vs. the West Point railroad, personal injuries, yester-day returned a verdict for the complainant in the sum of fifteen thousand dollars.

The case had been on trial in the city court The case had been on trial in the city court for three days, and the evidence was voluminous on both sides.

On the 2d day of March, 1883, Mr. Krogg was injured in a smashup on the West Point road, near Cusseta, Alabama. He was running as engineer, and the accident was caused by a broken rail. At the time the engine struck the broken rail the train was running at follows. the broken rail the train was running at full oadbed was torn up for more than a hundred feet and the crossties thrown in every direc feet and the crossties thrown in every direc-tion. The heavy iron rails were twisted and broken as if they had been wire. The engine was thrown completely off the track and was turned almost over, while the tender made a complete revolution. The mail coach, baggage car and one passenger coach were derailed. Mr. Krogg was scalded and bruised, and for many weeks it was thought that he would die. The fire-man mail scott and or train had were man, mail agent and one train hand were badly injured. Mr. Krogg found, upon getting up from his bed, that he could not use his left sim to any extent. The bruise in his breast was of such a nature as to cause serious injury was of such a nature as to cause serious injury to his lung. He entered suit against the road, and employed Colonel J.T. Glenn to represent him. The evidence and argument was all in at half-past one yesterday, and the case given to the jury. In a little more than an hour, the jury returned a verdict for fifteen thousand dollars.

The counsel for the road will carry the case

NEW YORK STOCKS. Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock

Exchange. NEW YORK, May 14.—The news on the street his morning was generally to the effect that the aterise had had its day, Uncertainty in regard to the forthcoming statement of New York Central, the troubles of Lake Shore and Nickle Plate, and an unfavorable statement of the earnings of St. Paul, made these stocks conspicuously weak at the opening. The remainder of the active list was all within ½ per cent of last night's closing, but the market was weak ie tone from the opening to the close, hardly a rally worthy of the name. The Coalers and St. Paul were very weak, as was Pacific Mail, which lost 1% per cent, and Louisville and Nashville 114. The rest of the active list is down ractional amounts. THE CHICAGO MARKET. Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Produce. Special to The Constitution.

CHICAGO, May 14-The course of the wheat mar ket was dewnward during the early hours of trading, June breaking from 76%c to 75%c, rallied and losed on the regular board at about yesterday's atest figures. In the afternoon the feeling was a hade firmer, and the latest trading prices were about top figures of the day. There were stories of grasshoppers in large quantities in Indiana, which had a little stiffening effect; but, taking the day through, there was very little news to affect prices An increased speculation was noticeable in corn and prices ruled stronger and 1401/20 higher than Oats ruled steady at about yesterday's figures.

of the probate court in the country of Lee, state of Alabama, and in conformity with the directions and terms prescribed in the resolutions passed by the holders of said bonds, on April 24, 1886, under the authority conterred by said deed of trust.

We will sell in the city Columbus, Muscogee county, Georgia, oh the 3d day of August, 1886, between the legal hours of sale, in front of the auction house of F. M. Knowles & Co., on the northwest corner of Broad street and Tenth (formerly tween the legal hours of sale, in front of the auction house of F. M. Knowles & Co., on the northwest corner of Broad street and Tenth (formerly Crawford street,) (being the usual place for sheriff's sales in said city of Columbus) at public outery, to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described property of the Columbus manufacturing company, to-wit: All those lots and parcels of land situated, lying and being, as follows: Fractional section number twenty-six (26) and the north half of fractional section number thirty (30) in formerly Russell now Lee county, state of Alabama. Also the following lots of lands lying and being in the eighth district of Muscogee county, state of Georgia. known as lots number eighty-six (36) and eighty-seven (87) and the west half of lot number seventy-four (74) and fractions numbered ninety-one (91) and ninety-two (22), and island number three (3) in Chattanoocnee river, and a small enclosure situated east of the residence formerly occupied by J. R. Clapp.used as a residence and grazing lot, containing seven (7) acres more or less. All of said lands last described ying and being in the county of Muscogee and tate of Georgia, and together with said lands in Lee county, Alabama. containing eight hundred and thirty (830) acres more or less. Also, all of the said Columbus manufacturing company's buildings on said land in Muscogee county, Ga., operated as a cotton factory, and with all of the improvements in any manner appendant and appartenant thereto, inclusive of the cards, spindles, looms, machinery and fixtures of every kind whatever contained in said buildings also all andsingular the other improvements on all of the lands aforementioned and described; also the entire water power owned and controlled by said Columbus manufacturing company held and possessed therein under the laws of Georgia.

The plant of said cotton factory consists at present of 4,544 spindles, 149 looms and other sultable machinery, all in good condition and producing good work. Present canacity 7,500 heavy sheetings and shirtings, three yards to the pound.

The operatives' houses and improvements geacrally in excellent condition, labor abundant, lands elevated and location of property unsurpassed for health, convenience and economical production—free from the burden of municipal taxes paid by all the other Columbus mills, yet within three miles of the city of Columbus and three quarters of a mile of Columbus and Rome railroad. The water power is the finest in the south, controlling and embracing the whole bed of the Chattahoochee river for the distance of about one mile along the lands of the company, said lands extending along its banks upon the Georgia and Alabama sides of the river. Only a small nortion of the water power is required and utilized in running the present mill and the natural falls in the river render but a simple inexpensive dam of logs and plank necessary. This magnificent water power is easily controlled and has a fall of forty-two and a half (4½) feet within three-quarters (¾) of a mile. With a comparatively small expenditure upon a new dam, 185 (60) (one hundred and twenty-five thousand) comparatively small expenditure upon a new dam, 125,000 (one hundred and twenty-five thousand) spindles with looms in proportion can be driven by this water power. Capital for the erection of additional mills and utilization of the immense power now wasted, is all that is needed to make this property the site of a prosperous and populous manufacturing village. The personal inspection of capitalists is invited. Full and satisfactory details will be furnished on application.

The reporter sought Superintendent Barnes to obtain his statement concerning the trouble, but found that he was in Boston. From another source it was learned that the four conductors put in the places of the old ones were given the positions temporarily, in order that they might learn the road preparatory to taking charge of trains soon to be put on. When this view of the matter was mentioned to the conductor whom the reporter interviewed, he said:

"That is all stuff. The four new conductors will hold their present positions until they are turned out by a new superintendent. There will be trouble about the matter yet, and you will live to see it:"

BISHOP BECKER IN ATLANTA. He Meets the People and Views the City-His Departure for Savannah.

Departure for Savannah.

Bishop Becker, accompanied by Bishop Moore and party, left last night for Savannah, where the installation of the new bishop will take place tomorrow.

At 7 O'clock yesterday morning, the two bishops celebrated mass in the church of the Immaculate Conception. At 9 o'clock the reception at the parochial residence began. For two hours a constant stream of ladies and gentlemen massed through the building. The two hours a constant stream of lades and gen-tlemen passed through the building. The bishop received all in a most gracious manner. At eleven o'clock the party was entertained at a musicale by the students of the academy of the Immaculate Conception. An address of welcome to Bishop Becker was read by Miss Marie Phillips, to which the bishop gracefully responded. It seems that the engineers and conductors have several grievances which they consider serious. Among both classes dissatisfaction has At three o'clock in the afternoon, Dr. Spalding, Captain J. H. Mecaslin, Mr. John F. O'Neill and Mr. John J. Falvey waited upon O'Neill and Mr. John J. Falvey waited upon the reverend gentlemen with carriages and drove them over the city. Among the points of interest visited was Grant's park, with which both the bishops were highly delighted, paying handsome compliments to those who designed the park. At six o'clock the bishop and his party took the train for Savannah. The committee did its duty well in entertaining the distinguished visitors and thanks are especially returned to the officers of the Central railroad and to Messrs. Chambers & Co., of Atlanta, for kindness tendered.

Macon. When the division was put in first class order, they still faithfully discharged their duties. When it was learned that several new engines were to be placed in service, it was thought that the management would, of course, reward some of the old and faithful engineers by giving them charge of the new moschines. But no such thing was done. Instead, the very first new engine that was turned out from the shops was given to a comparatively new man. This has caused a great deal of dissatisfaction, and I would not be surprised if some of the old engineers should resign or strike."

INCREASING DISSATISFACTION.

"But isn't the cause of the dissatisfaction rather frivolous?"

"Well, the men do not think so. They do dered. An interesting story was told of Bishop Becker during the day. He was a parish priest in Virginia during the war. On one occasion his church was within the federal lines. The colonel commanding ordered the priest to pray for the president of the United States. This Father Becker declined to do, as he did not recognize in an army officer the power to control his actions. He was arrested, but subsequently released, still firmly refusing to change his course.

"Well, the men do not think so. They do not care so much because the new engine was given to a new man. What they regard is the principle involved. They claim that there is no disposition upon the part of the management to reward faithful service. In the last ten days I have heard it said a hundred times that long and faithful service deem't service. Connection of Colonel Daniel S. Printup, of Rome, with Sale of 41-2 Per Cent.
Georgia Bonds.

In our recent report of details of the sale of 4½ per cent Georgia bonds, unintentional injustice was done to Colonel Printup. We inadvertently omitted to state that he was active in beinging the loan to the attention of New York capitalists, and appeared as one of the representatives of the purchasers—Messrs. Wilfe and his associates, before the executive. The result must be gratifying to him in no slight degree, ten days I have heard it said a hundred times that long and faithful service doesn't count with the management. You see, there have been several changes of superintendents and nasters of trains, and each new one has brought with him a number of favorites from other roads. Old engineers have either been discharged or have been shoved into the background to make room for these new men. I'll bet a month's salary that there is not in the south another road whose engineers are so thoroughly dissatisfied and demoralized as these on the Georgia division of the Esst Tennessee. those on the Georgia division of the Esst Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad."
"Is it your opinion that the dissatisfaction is increasing?"

'Yes, it is. The engineers do not talk much to outsiders, but they do talk a great deal among themselves. As I said before, I wouldn't be surprised if some of them should resign or strike. They don't know how long they will hold their places, and that keeps them in a continual state of apprehension. They are tired of it. Why, two-thirds of them expect to be discharged as soon as the road is sold. They expect that fate because they expect another change of superintendents and masters of trains and the arrival of more new men."

A Woman's Curiosity.—Loretta Hines, assistant postmaster at Burch's, South Carolina, was arrested Tuesday last by Inspector Griffin on a charge of rifling registered letters. It is stated that the case is a very strong one against the lady.

CALLERS ON THE GOVERNOR -The quiet of the executive office was not disturbed by many callers yesterday. Among the few that paid their respects to the governor were Rev. T. P. Cleveland, Rev. J. S. Lamar and Mr. T. C. Carlton. Mr. Carlton is a citizen of Elberton.

THE PULLMAN PALACE CAR CASE.-The case of the Pullman Palace car company vs. Wright comptroller general, etc., set for trial in the United States circuit court yesterday, was indefinitely postponed. Attorney Gencial Clifford Anderson is at Macon quite sick.

CROP REPORTS SENT OUT .- Commissioner of Agriculture J. T. Henderson was busy yester-cay, sending out the May crop reports. He informed a CONSTITUTION reporter that he thought the condition and prospects of the crops good. The corn and fruit crops are un-usually promising.

CLOSING AT SIX O'CLOCK.—The clerks of the city will make an effort to get their employers to close their places of business at six o'clock in the evening, and thus allow them an opportunity to get a little rest and recreation. A number of the merchants have expressed a willingness to close at six, while others want to keep their doors open as late as possible.

ALDERMYN COMMISSIONED. - Yesterday

GOVERNEY COMMISSIONED. — Yesterday Governor McDaniel directed commissions to be issued to Messrs. Alva C. Wright and Joseph J. Vocelle as aldermen of the town of St. Marys. Messrs. Wright and Vocelle were appointed to fill vacancies caused by the resignation of Messrs. E. A. McWhorter and A. Berat, both of whom have received appointments in the government's civil service.

A LAMP EXPLOSION.—Last night quite an excitement was created on Peachtree street, nor the artesian well, by a bright light in Mr. T. C. Smith's room, in the Healy building. The light was very bright and at first created the impression that the building was on fire, but the blaze died out in a few minutes, and then it was ascertained that a lamp had been knocked from a table and had exploded.

HE BROKE A LEG.—James Waters, a young nogro man employed in the transfer stables on Ivy street, had his left leg broken yesterday. Waters was breaking a young mule and had him in the yard in the rear of the stable. The mule was hard to handle, and in jumping around wound the rope about Waters and threw him to the ground. After Waters had fallen the mule dragged him into the barn, and his leg struck the door with such force it at the bones were broken.

A NEW MILITARY COMPANY.—Since the Atlanta military returned from Savanuah, the military spirit in Atlanta has revived and a movement to organize a new company is now on foot. The matter has not yet taken a definite shape, but is being discussed by quite a number of young men. Yesterday several of those who are moving in the matter called upon Captaiu J. F. Burke, who was once at the head of the Gate City Guard, with a view to enlisting his aid in the movement. Captain Burke is a thorough disciplinanian and with his aid a fine company could be formed. The gentleman having the affair in hand will brobably call a meeting early next week.

WANTS FIVE THOUSAND .- Weil & Brandt, wants five Thousand.—Well & Brandt, ounsel for Mr. Solomon Dewald, yesterday led a suit in the clerk's office against W. R. billips, Jr., for five thousand dollars' damages for personal injuries. On the 9th day of last month Mr. Phillips was out driving, and while crossing Broad street bridge his horse became frightened and dashed down the street sta lively rate. When opposite Block's horse became frightened and dashed down the street at a lively rate. When opposite Block's eandy factory Mr. Dewald was struck on the back of the head by the shaft, and received painful and dangerous injuries. Mr. Dewald alleges that his injuries are of such a nature as to unfit him for duty, and that his business has been sadly neglected. He further alleges that the accident was caused by gross negligence and carelessness on the part of Mr. Phillips.

Phillips.

A SAD DEATH.—Henry Strauss, four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex, Strauss, who reside at 197 Bush street, died rather suddenly yesterday afternoon. The little fellow was well and in fine health on Tuesday last. That afternoon he became overheated while playing and that night had a high fever. The next morning he was not able to speak and the fever seemed to be on the increase. A physician was sent for and before dark the child was delirious. That night his condition was extremely critical, and the next morning all hopes of his recovery were abandoned. Every possible effort was made to save his life but without success, and death ensued late yesterday afternoon. The body was prepared for shipment last night by Bliley, the undertaker, and this morning will be taken to Charleston, his parents' old home, for burial.

MR. COOK'S CONDITION.—Dr. T. S. Powell, the attending physician of Mr. Cook, the man who fell from the capitol building from a height of thirty feet, says the patient, though suffering much from the shock and soreness of the injury, is doing better than was hoped for at the beginning, or could have reasonably been expected under the circumstances. There seems to be no bones broken and it is believed no serious internal injury exists. If the opinion proves to be correct, that there is no fatal internal injury, he may be expected to recover and return again to his work in a short time. Dr. P. also stated that Mrs. L. B. Wright, the lady on Peters street who fell from the doorstep, a distance of about eighteen inches, though slightly better, has not been able to move since the injury, three days ago, and is suffering intensely. "Thus," said the doctor, "we have an example of the uncertainty of all human events, when we find, as in this case, a party who had a fall of thirty feet resting more comfortably, and apparently having a better prospect of recovery than one whose fall seemed to be only a trifling matter."

THE CABLE RATE WAR.

What the Two Telegraph Managers Have to Say About the Struggle.

"How is the cable rate war?"
That question was asked last night by a Constitution reporter, and was answered as follows by Manager Orr, of the Southern Telegraph company:
"There is nothing new about the rate war.

"There is nothing new about the rate war. Before the Mackey-Bennett commercial cable was put in the rate was sixty cents a word. This cable started off by putting the rate down to forty cents a word and has held to that figure. The other cable companies have cut the rate to twelve cents which is less than the cost. The twelve cents rate cannot be maintained permanently and is a desperate thrust at the commercial cables. The commercial cable has put on a rate of twenty-five cents a word and assures its patrons that it will keep that as a permanent rate, and if at any time the cable has to return to a higher figure than the old rate, the difference between twelve and twenty-five cents per word will be returned to such as pay the rate now existing. The Mackey-Bennett company is well able to take care of itself, and is exceedingly popular in New York. Its patrons are standing by it nobly."

New York. Its patrons are small nobly."

Manager J. M. Stephens, of the Western Union, said in answerite a querry:

"I knew nothing about the matter further than that I received instructions to put on a twelve cent rate, which I have done."

"What has been the effect? Has business been stimulated?"

"A change in rates does not stimulate cable business. It is a class of telegraphing that goes on evenly without regard to rates."

The Atlanta club played an admirable game sterday, and should it continue to manifest e same interest in its work, it will soon find yesterday, and should be the same interest in its work, it will soon and that it can count on every encouragement from its supporters in the city. The players were all in harmony and did remarkably well throughout the game. The heavy batting of the Atlantas was the game. Charleston will, however, to day, feature of the game. Charleston will, however, put Weyhing, her brag pitcher, in the box today, and the Atlanta batters will have not near so easy a time. It is probable that Hill, Atlanta's new witcher. pitcher, will occupy the box today. He comes well recommended and is backed by a splendid record. Today's game will certainly be an inter-

Rotten Umpiring in Nashville.

Rotten Umpiring in Nashville.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 14.—[Special.]—
The Macons and Nashvilles played a good game today before a good audience, but neither batted very heavily. Rotten umpiring tied the game in the ninth inning, when the score stood 4 to 4. Neither side made any more runs, and in the last half of the twelfth inning, when Macon had three men on bases, Umpire Young, on the plea that the Nashvilles were delaying the man, gave the game to Macon by a sore of 9 to 0. Intense excipement prevalled, 3° the game would have been won by Nashville before the ninth inning had it not been for half a dozen rank decisions. One man was allowed five strikes and succeeded in making a run. The batteries were Dundon and McVey for Nashville, Smith and Dick for Macon.

THE CITY PRISON.

THE BUILDING IS BEING CLEANSED AND IMPROVED.

tion That Would Give More Room and Reef-What an Old Officer Thinks About it-A Burglar Tries to Go for a Councilman-A Bale of Unclaimed Goods, Etc.

Police headquarters is being generally overhauled, thoroughly cleansed and greatly im-proved. The stationhouse keeper's office has been neatly papered, the main hallway has been whitewashed and painted, while the cells have been whitewashed and scalded. police courtroom has been whitewashed and the esrpets and matting thoroughly dusted. The work was all completed yesterday afternoon, and the building presents a neater appearance than it has worn for years. Every one familiar with the building knows that it is too small and too inconveniently arranged for the demands made upon it. There are only eight cells in the prison and these are all arranged in one row. There are no cells where one prisoner cannot communicate with any one in the prison and there are no senserts any there are no senserts and there are no senserts and the notion of the notio son, and there are no separate apartments for the male and female prisoners other than the keepers make. The police court room is on the second floor of the building and is small enough to be uncomfortable. Yesterday after noon just as the workmen were "completing the job an old policeman remarked; "Atlanta needs a larger station house."

'Yes, a good many other things," said some one present.
"But she can't get everything she needs now, and she can get better accommodations for her prisoners."
"How?"

"Easy enough. Let the second floor of the building now used as a court room be cut up into cells. A dozen good ones could be made there, and then the state prisoners could be kept separate from the city prisoners, and the male and female prisoners would not be in the same section

'Put what about a court room?"

'The city has leased the chamber of commerce building, all but one floor, for five years. The city uses only two floors. Now why couldn't one of these floors, say the basement floor, be made into a court room.

That would be better than it is now."

Chief Conuolly as an Auctioneer,

Every day in the year nearly articles find their way into the city prison for which no one ever calls. Some of them are taken away from prisoners who are subsequently convicted of some offense and who refuse to tell to whom the articles belong. Some are found by members of the force and are neger claimed, and some are left by prisoners as a pledge for their appearance in court and are never redeemed. Section 557 and 558 of the city code provides that the chief of police shall as often as he deems proper advertise the articles and if they are not claimed within ten days to sell them to the highest bidder. One of these sales will take place on the the 26th instant, and yesterday a list of the articles to be sold were adterday a list of the articles to be sold were advertised. Among the articles are:

They Were After a Councilman's Goods Yesterday morning, about two o'clock, burglars entered W. M. Middlebrook's store on burgiars entered W. M. Middlebrook's store on West Peters street, but were driven away before they could secure anything. Soon after going on duty Patrolmen Parish and Mercer passed the store and noticed a flash as though a match had been lighted. They at once ex-amined the doors but found them fastened. A tall box. however, atood against the front door tall box, however, stood against the front door and one of the thin iron bars which extend across the front of the store had been sprung. Patrolman Parish mounted the box, and sticking his head through the transom of the door, saw nothing, although he lit a match. Not being satisfied, however, he left Patrolman Mercer on guard while he aroused Mr. Middlebrooks. Subsequent investigations dis-closed that the back door was wide open, the burgiar baving made his exit through it when the Patrolman came up to the front of the

They Were Bound Over all Around. T. M. Huntley Last Night.

A large and well pleased audience assembled at DeGire's to see the Huntley-Stark company in the "Streets of New York," last night. The play is really a strong one, being full of interest and brimming with the best of hunor. It was rendered in a manner that called for the loudest applause. In fact, Mr. Huntley more than sustained the fine reputation be has made here. A good house should greet "Ten Nights in a Ear Room" tonight, for the show is a good one and worth three times the price charged. Mr. Huntley has indeed made a good impression here, and his return will be watched for with interest.

SIR ROBERT CHRISTISON, Physician to Her Majesty the Queen of England, speaking of the Cora plant, says: "The properties of this wonderful plant are the most remarkable of any known to the medical world. From repeated personal trials, I am convinced that its use is highly beneficial and tonic." To build up a broken-down system, use the Liebig Co's Coca Beef Tonic, in dorsed and recommended by the foremost physicians of Europe and America. Overwrought and feeble nerves are quieted, digestion is promoted, and new tone and vigor in all of the organs of the body follow its use.
